

Society Seeking Outdoors; Informal Affairs Prevail; Mrs. Harding at Mt. Alto

Two Charity Balls Fail to Overcome Lassitude. Many Events Planned for Sir William C. Pakenham.

SALLIE V. H. PICKETT.

PPARENTLY society had its first threat of an attack of spring fever last week, or at least social lassitude, for even two charity balls failed to wake things up to any great extent, and all along the line there was a tendency for small and informal affairs, and most of those out of doors. Mrs. Harding, who, several times during the week received groups of guests, evidently thought best of the open, for every window on the south front of the White House was arranged to give a glimpse of the rolling lawn and the gay flower beds, and Thursday afternoon she drawe put to Mount Alto, where a garden party was held under the auspices of the public health service. There she walked about among the guests and patients in the most informal manner, and also made several purchases of the handiwork of the wounded soldiers.

TT would be hard to find a more beautiful spot for a hospital than that occupied by Mount Alto, from which point of vantage one has a perfect panoramic view of the city, the Potomac river and the hills of Virginia. Mrs. Harding stopped several times to admire the scene, as did Lady Geddes, Mrs. Herbert Hoover and other guests, who motored out for the tea. Mrs. Harding's first garden party will be for wounded soldiers, the patients of a number of hospitals within easy reach of Washington, and her consideration in arranging all details for the comfort of the men is touching. Trucks, ambulances and automobiles bearing the disabled will deposit their burdens almost at the feet of the hostess, while special arrangements will be made for chair and cot patients, all of whom are clamoring to see the President and Mrs. Harding.

THE several notable dinner parties of the week—that given by the am-bassador of Peru and Senora de Pezet for the delegates from Peru to the Tacna-Arica conference, the dinner given by the minister of Persia for the Vice President and Mrs. Coolidge, the dinner party entertained by the Secretary of State and Mrs. Hughes last evening—all furnished the atmosphere of semi-official affairs so necessary to Washington, while many less formal parties were entertained. There was much less formal entertaining for the Chile-Peru delegates than had been expected, but the garden tea given Friday afternoon by Mr. Charles M. Pepper, the traveler and writer, for the Chile delegates made amends for any inability of the delegates to accept all invitations tendered.

THE arrival of H. M. S. Raleigh tomorrow will throw Washington society into a state of constant social effervescence which will last for a full week, in which time there will not be a single waking moment left idle, either for the commander-in-chief, Admiral Sir William C. Pakenham, his officers or his crew. Those who will entertain include the British ambassador, the Secretary of State, Mrs. Reynolds Hitt, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mr. Broderick, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mr. Frank B. Noyes, Mrs. Thomas T. Gaff, Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Mrs. Stephen L'H. Slocum, Col. Theodore Roosevelt, acting Secretary of the Navy; Miss Anna Hamlin, Miss Bromwell and a number of the men of the British embassy staff. One of the largest events will be the afternoon reception on board the Raleigh, while a necessarily much smaller affair will be the dance on board the Mayflower for the British officers.

THE commander-in-chief of the Raleigh will give a dinner Wednesday, and the forms of entertainment include luncheons, teas, receptions, dinners and dances, with, of course, the reception and dance at the British embassy Wednesday night as the most-sought-for of all the entertainments. Both the commander-in-chief of the Raleigh and his officers will take part in the Lincoln Memorial dedication, and will undoubtedly visit the unknown soldier's grave in Arlington. Col. Roosevelt, who, in the absence of Mr. Denby, is acting Secretary of Navy, will have his time almost entirely consumed for the week in the entertainment for and by the British admiral, his officers and crew.
